Catherine O'Brien draws on the structure of Dante Alighieri's Divine Comedy to explore Martin Scorsese's feature films from Who's That Knocking at My Door (1967-69) to Silence (2016). This is the first full-length study to focus on the trajectory of faith and doubt during this period, taking very seriously the oft-quoted words of the director himself: 'My whole life has been movies and religion.'

He also includes Genseric, a historical tragedy by Antoinette Deshoulières, and a selection by Catherine Durand of so-called proverb comedies, short playlets illustrating well-known proverbs. As Gethner points out, the number of tragedies written by women in the period is small; he counts nine in total, including two tragi-comedies, but argues ...
